NEWS BY TELEGRAPH. Thrilling Tragedy-A Child's Throat Cut by a Manine, &c.

Boston, June 8, 1851. A fearful tragedy took place last evening in Roxbury. A young man, representing himself as a stranger from Hope, Me., called at the house of Dr. A. G. Cumming, a very respectable physician, and requested medical advice. The doctor being out, Mrs. C. invited him to step into the parlor, where he sat down, took off his cravat and complained of pain in his side. At that moment, ittle daughter of Dr. C.'s came running into the room, when the man instantly drew a razor from his pocket, and cut the child's throat from ear to ear. The mother sprang forward, and in her efforts to protect her child, was herself badly cut in the hands. She then fled from the house, with the servant girl, pursued by the assassin The neighbors were alarmed, and rushed to the spot when the man cut his own throat, and fell dead in the street. The little girl, who was an only child, also died instantly. The man's name is supposed to be Ephraim G. Daggett, and he was doubtless insanc.

A fire broke out this morning in Albany street, which partially destroyed two large brick buildings, occupied New England Wire Railing Manufactory, and Henry E. Holmes' planing establishment. Loss about $10,000. The buildings were owned by Josiah Quincy Jun. A number of firemen were injured by the breaking

The Weather-Rain, Hail and Floods-Amusements -Races-Fêtes-The French Opera-New Singers -Rachel--Brohan- Ugalde-New Dramas-Ballocning-Americans in Paris, &c., &c.

We shall not enjoy this year any spring season such as in former times made ours the mildest of Eurspe. For the last ten days we have had a series of storms, occasionally dissipated by the bright rays of a hot sun. Thus we are living half frozen, half roasted, knowing not when we go out in the morning whether we shall take with us either an umbrella or a stick, an overcoat or a simple frock. It is to be hoped that the moon will soon change, and thus settle the difficulty. In several provinces of France, namely, in the department of the Gers. and in that of the Pas-de-Calais, hail and rain have fallen in such large quantities that much property has been destroyed. Many of the hail stones were as big as pigeon's eggs. At Postel, near the city of Boulogne, a small rivulet, which discharges its waters into the river Manche, was suddenly swollen waters into the river Manche, was suddenly swollen by an instantaneous rain, and all the village was swept as if by enchantment. Many lives were lost by that terrible flood.

Despite this uncommonly bad weather, the city is thronged with strangers. One who walks either on the Boulevards or in the streets of Paris would think that we have returned to the time of the Tower of Babel, for the confusion of languages strikes his ear to the utmost degree. In order to assume these numerous foreigners, the managers of public amusements have doubled their efforts, and they have been very lucky and successful. The government itself, wishing to offer a brilliant festival to the amateurs of sport gave all the necessary care to the races of Chastilly, which have offered one of the most brilliant coup d'adi to the numerous amateurs attracted thither by the programme. On Saturday last, a grand stag chase took place in the forcet of Ermenonville, near Mont L'Eveque, care to the races of Chartily, which have offered one of the most brilliant comp d'ail to the numerous smateurs attracted thither by the programme. On Saturday last, a grand stag chase took place in the forest of Ermenonville, near Mont L'Eveque, and the noble animal, a cerf dix cors jeunement, after having been pursued during five hours by a large number of hunters, in full costume, accompanied by many ladies, dressed as amazons, ended his life in the lake of Chantilly, where a magnificent haliati gave much pleasure and sport to all who were present. Through the kind attention of M. Le Comte d'Hédonville, I had been invited to this royal sport, and was furnished with a horse whose gallop was as soft as that of a doe. I enjoyed the sight of the hunt as a real sportsman. Several American gentlemen were present at this fete cynegitique, and as it was to them something entirely new, they had much fun.

On Sunday last, the town of Chantilly offered also a magnificent coup d'ail. The railway brought there about two or three thousand persons, who had come to the races. The hotels of the city were so filled with strangers, that many persons were scarcely able to get a piece of bread for their dinner, and were obliged to wait their return to Paris to find more substantial food. The different stakes of the Chantilly races offered much excitement to amateurs, and though I am not fond of that sort of sport, I must say that I took great interest in the different runs between the noble animals. The President of the republic had offered the committee of the races a splendid shield of steel enamelied with gold, which was won by Lola, a superb mare belonging to M. Gustave de Blangy. The races ended by a steeple chase on the edges of the town, in which many gentlemen riders joined. It was won by Mr. Clifton. On Sunday next, the races of Versailles will offer another pleasure-day to all amateurs.

in which many gentlemen riders joined. It was won by Mr. Clitton. On Sunday next, the races of Versailles will offer another pleasure-day to all amateurs.

A very queer incident took place at the races of Chantilly. It must be remembered that the ground upon which the stands are clevated, belong to M. Ie Due d'Aumale, the heir of the Prince of Conde. In the centre of the pelouse, a fine pavilion has been erected by the dake, and he had sent to Louis Napoleon an invitation to make use of it, if he came to Chantilly. This offer was accepted, but not attended to; and the letter of invitation remained in the hands of the President. Princess Mathilde Demidoff, the cousin of the President, who had come to Chantilly, went to the door of the pavilion and ordered the keeper to open it to her. This man who had the consignent to use his keys but for Louis Napoleon, refused in the most positive manner, and the Princess not having the power to persuade him, was obliged to shelter herself with the crowd, behind the fourth row of seats, without etiquetic suns facon, and raging like an offended woman. When she returned to Paris, she called upon her cousin, requesting him to have the inflexible door keeper punished, but, fortunately for the poor servitor of Chantilly, he was beyond the reach of the Napoleon anger.

On Thursday last, the amiable Countess Du Cayla, whose chateau at St. Owen is one of the funbourg St. Germain. It was, as usual, for a matinet de hids, a charming pretext to congregate around her all the distinguished nobility of the aristocracy and the literary men of Paris. The company was recherche, and the greatest cordiality prevailed among all the guests.

At Asnieres, a prettily arranged Park called La folie Asniers, was opened on Sunday last, and invaded by all the greatest cordiality prevailed among all the guest.

The grand festival of the lucas which annually takes place at Valenciennes, in the department of the Nord, was this year more magnificent than ever. One of my friends who went thicker, enticed by excellent method of singing is so universally admired, has created the utmest sensation in her new personation of Zerlina, in the opera of Auber, called "La Corbeille d'Oranges." This talented contraite is nightly received with the most unbounded applause, and the theatre is filled from pit to dome. The music of the famed composer contains many gems to gain the approbation of the public; and one who listens to these sweet melodies, always so fresh and so new by this muestro par excellence, is every time more and more astonished at the fecundity of M. Auber. The poem is by M. Seribe, and though founded upon a very light intrigue, its plot has been sufficient to furnish the composer with incidents to excite his zerve. Two new singers have made their appearance in this new opera. The first is called Merly, a baseo of much ability, who will, no doubt, become one of the favorites of the Academy of Music; the other, named Aymès, is a fine looking man, a good tenor, who, with a little more study, will also acquire an honorable rank in the musical army of M. Nestor Requeplan. I must not forget to mention that the scenery, costumes, and properties of the "Corbeille d'Oranges" is equal to anything produced at the Froach Opera House.

M'lle Rachel has but a few nights more to appear to appear at the Theatre Français. In a fortnight she leaves for England, and thence she will proceed on her long journey through Germany. She performed, last night, in the celebrated drama of Victor Hugo, "Angelo," and her part of La Tisbé was rewarded with much applause.

Mile. Madeleme Brohan, the pretty and talented actress of the same theatre, was, according to rumor, to be married to M. Bataille, the renowned basso singer of the Comic Opera House. I have been told by herself that this is not the case. She is still in possession of her heart, and thus this will give a chance to the Butlers, Massons, and young men of the same rank who desire to try their chances. Come on! come on!

Madame Ugaide, the celebrated prima down of the Opera Comi

At the Gymnase theatre, the company of Spanish dancers, at the head of whom is the celebrated Petra Camara, the lioness of the city for the present hour, have been attracting hosts of visiters. Never have I seen a more fascinating woman than this beautiful danscuse, whose grace and charming chorography have no rival. Nightly, the theatre is filled by the most fashionable company and the stage is covered with bouquets, a just reward of the inexpressible pleasure afforded by Petra Camara to her beholders.

At the Porte St. Martin, the long spoken of fairy play to illustrate the Grand Exhibition of the Crystal Palace of London, will be performed on Saturday. I have been told that this rerue will surpass anything of the kind ever put upon any stage.

At the Ambigu Comique, the drama of Messrs. Dumas and Maquel, called "Villefort," founded upon the last part of Monte Christo, is nightly attracting the strangers who wish to know the dramatic effects of the romance; and Messrs. Arnault, Chilly, Verner, Boutin, as well as Meedames Arnault Naptal, Milanger and Lemare are received with much appliause.

Last not the least, in this theatrical report, we have had two excellent vaudevilles at the theatre Montansier. The first is called "La Foe Cocotte." The charming little girl Moutaland, who plays in it, deserves the greatest credit for her histrionic talents. The second is called "Belphegor," written by Messrs. Dumanoir and St. Yves. Sainville, the funny comedian, assisted by Melles Desirie and Durand have made the success of the play.

The management of the Theatre des Varietés is now in the hands of M. Dormeuil, a gentleman of much ability, who will undoubtedly return to that place of amusement the old fame nearly lost under the contemptible gestion of M. Thisbandeau.

At the Hippodrome, the departure of the mammoth balloon called the "Eagle," which has already taken place twice, has been successful. The aerostat, in the car of which were fifteen persons, went up in capital style and alighted without any danger. I have been promised by the manager, M. Arnault, to have a seat for the next journey in the air, and I will give, "on my safe return to earth," the exact report of all that happens to us in this aerial excussion.

The camels, Arabs, horses, and costumes from Algiers, which are to be exhibited at the Hippodrome, arrived last night in Paris, and will no doubt create an impression. One may see that Paris is a place for pleasure of all kinds. Theatres, balloons, fantasias, public gardens, pretty women and good wines! Is not all this sufficient?

Linex: Surr — Dealecare lavesmearor — The Winds and The Receiver of the Receiver The action for libel, by the editor of the Brooklyn Freemen against the proprietors of the Advertiser, which has been postponed several times, commenced on Friday, when seme curious disclosures were made as to hegotlations, before the last election, between the present Mayor. Conklin Brush, Esq., and the then and the present owner, to secure the aid of the Freemen in the struggle for the mayoralty. There were but two witnesses sworn—the present proprietor of the Freemen, and the Mayor. The satisf sheet proprietor of the Freemen, and the Mayor. The satisf sheet and attempting to extert money from the Mayor.

The Mayor gave a simple story. He, witness, (whig) was a candidate for the mayoralty, when he received a letter from a gentleman, and he want in consequence to Samuel E. Johnson's chambers, (the Freeman was at that time neutral, and Samuel E. Johnson, County Judge, was the proprietor?); he went, and found them disposed to come out in his favor, and he paid $75 down, when 10,000 or 13,000 papers were to be distributed, with a wood-out-counterfelt presentment of His Honor. He then saw Colston, the plaintiff.

Mr. Colton swears that he was then only the publisher, and received the $75 from the Mayor, as agent of Samuel E. Johnson, in part payment for the papers to be distributed, the balance being made up by Mr. Hodges, (Sheriff.) and Mr. Lawrence, (Street Commissioner.) He swears also, that the Mayor came to them, and that he said he had no confidence in the Advertiser, because the editor used to be in a state of intexication, and that he said he had no confidence in the Advertiser, because the editor used to be in a state of intexication, and the theory of the Counter of the Counter of the Advertiser, the same had been the Hispotland of Some money from the Counter of the Advertiser, because the editor understord he had been the Hispotland of Som Attempted Revolt in the Sing Sing Paison—We were informed yesterday, by one of the keepers of the State prison at Sing Sing, that an attempt was made on Friday, in the carpet weaving shop, to revoit, and murder the keeper and contractor. It appears a desperate convict, by the name of Barton (sentenced for manslaughter) concocted a scheme among the other convicts is said shop, to the effect that he was to strike their keeper, proceeding to work in the afternoon, said Barton drew a knife, and was about to plunge it into the breast of Mr. Vau Wart, when another keeper, by the name of Andrews, (recently from Buffaio) stepped up and seized the blood-thirsty convict by the throat, and thereby prevented him from carrying out his murderous design. Some six or eight other convicts had agreed to participate in the revolt, and all of them were taken out and punished with the shower bath.

Defore Hon. Judge Paine.

June 6.—Samuel H. Mess vs. Abraham B. Perles.—This was an action to recover damages, laid in the complaint at $3,000, for injuries received by plaintiff, in consequence of being run over in August last by a wood eart, driven by a person alleged to be the agent of defendant. The plaintiff seye was seriously injured by the accident, and he also received injuries on his body. The defence is that the plaintiff was the owner of the cart in question, and lent the same to the driver referred to, who was to rell the wood if a purchaser offered, and render a certain price for the same to the defendant; if he could not sell the wood, then he was to return it—in other words, that the driver was not the agent of the defendant, so as to make the latter liable for his acts. The Court charged that the driver was the servant or agent of the defendant; and if the jury believes that the accident happened in consequence of the carclessaces and negligence of the person driving the cart, that then the defendant was liable. The jury, after being out for a considerable time, were unable to agree, and were discharged by the Court

ANOTHER BANKING OPERATION—GURIOUS DEVELOPEMENTS—ALLEGED CHARGES OF FALSE PRETENCES.

Some few days ago a Mr. Miles A Bradley, of Cincinnati, appeared before Justice Lothrop, and preferred a complaint against Mr. Robert Barber, of St. Louis, at present putting up at the Irving House, in which complaint he set forth and charged that Mr. Barber had committed forgery, by the ensure of his name from the back of a draft for $5.000. as the first endoiser, and placing his name again on the paper under the name of A.

St. John, thereby making St. John the first endoiser, and the draft, instead of himself, which operation was deemed to affect the interest of St. John, and allegadit be a forgery. The case was held by the magistrale a silort time under advisement, and on the applications of the complainant's coansel, the charge was discontitued: A smit was then instituted against Mr. Barber ir the United States Court, and the defendant held to badi; and-now while the latter suit is still pending. Mr. Barber, under advice of coursel, has instituted a criminal complaint against Mr. Bradiey, before Justice Mountfort; changing the defendant with obtaining from him, about the 18th day of 'ctober, 1850, the sum of $7,500 in bankbills. in order, as alleged to purchase and secure the controlling in the sum of the sum of the sum of the sum order, as alleged to purchase and secure the magistrate, the facts, as sworn to by him, are of neordinary character, exhibiting some very remarkable ideas of Eastern banking. It seems, from a brief extract taken from the complaint, and the cross-examination of Mr. Barber, pending the hearing, that about the time the money was obtained. Mr. Bradley purchase, and had been compelled to place in the hards of Stephen Bardon, and the sum of $15,000 and Bradley proposed to go to Oxford Bank. Oxford, Massachusetts, which could be obtained for $15,000 and Bradley to give sum of the sum of $15,000 and Bradley to agreement. Mr. Barber, as first decimed to pay that amoun

magistrate issued his warrant of arrest, and Mr. Bradley was taken into cuctody by officer Bumsta ad, pending the investigation.

The following is a copy of the receipt made by Mr. Bradley on the receipt of the money:—

Received, New York, Oct. 21, 1850, of Robert Barber, Esq., 57, 80, for the purpose of purchasing the controlling interest of the Oxford Banach Massachusetts: I also agree to fursion and the Oxford Banach Massachusetts: I also agree to fursion and the Oxford Banach Massachusetts: I also agree to fursion and the Oxford Banach Massachusetts: I also agree to fursion and Barber and myself are to be added to the Control Banach Massachusetts and Esquelited in the Banash of Stephen Barton, Jr., for the purpose of making said purchase.

In addition to the above receipt, a letter was forwarded by Bradley to Barber, from Oxford. It is short and spicy. We give it below—it speaks for inself—Duar Str.—All is a going as smooth as oil. I think I shall want Bore money. Be ready, in the event of my drawing on you.

Pe of good cheer, there is a good thus ahead for us. The cars are on the point of starting, and I must stop.

We have said—I received a letter from E A. Thompson, of Cincinnati, recommending Mr. Bradley to me very highly; Mr. Bradley also referred me to Mr. Anada and Thomas P. St. John, brokers, in Wall street, and also some others; Mr. St. John, brokers, in Wall street, and also some others; Mr. St. John, brokers, in Wall street, and also some others; Mr. St. John, brokers, in bonus of 55,000 or 56,000 this sum Bradley declined to give, and conclude to effect the arrangement himself, and thus save the bonus; I also let him have $1,000 independent of the of said bank, asking for their services a bonus of $5,000 or $6.000; this sum Bradley declined to give, and concluded to effect the arrangement himself, and thus save the bonus; I also let him have $1,500; independent of the previous sums, which was also to be invested for the benefit of the banking operation; when Mr. Bradley returned from Oxford, he said the charter of the bank was one of the best in the world; he said that we could circulate any amount of its bills in the West, and that we could make a fortune by getting out all the money we could, and then, if we thought proper, to let the bank gadown: I remarked then to Mr. Bradley, that, if that was the object, I would withdraw, and having nothing further to do with it; and I further teld St. John. Hobart, and Weymouth, that I would only go into it to have it conducted honestly and fairly. Bradley told me that he had found the very man, who was Mr. Barton, to make the contract; again on Mr. Bradley; are turn from Oxford, he stated to me that he had completed the purchase, and it required some twenty days, according to the charter of the bank, for an election of new directors; Bradley then caulioned me not to correspond with any person there, as he would manage the matter himself, as he had commend it: Mr. Bradley then caulioned in his Oxford Bark; Mr. Bradley spoke of the first discourt being $50,000, making $25,000 each; I declined to go home until I had received my money; I wished to withdraw from the concern, and wanted him to pay me back to grant and said he would remit me my share in the Oxford Bark; Mr. Bradley spoke of the first discourt being $50,000, making $25,000 each; I declined to go home until I had received my money; I wished to withdraw from the concern, and wanted him to pay me hack my money; to this request Mr. Bradley and it would be unfair, as the money was all invested.

The further hearing in the case was adjourned over until this day. In reference to this matter, which at present appearance of the whole affair

TO THE ENTER OF THE HERLES.

Sin-Knowing that, however much the Heraid may be opposed to any party or interest, it slavay desires accessed to any party or interest, it slavay desires accessed to the property of statement with regard to the action of the National Industrial Corgress, now sitting at Albany.

Int. I utterly deny that the Congress was packed by abeliationists, as charged by Mr. J. I. Kingsley, in Returday's Heraid. It is composed of delegates from the various reforms and trade organizations throughout the country, and it would have been a gross libel on their consistency had they declined receiving any man because God Almighty saw at to eslor him black.

2d. Mr. Wilson, who is a member of the Wisconson Legislature, did not vote in favor of, but against, the admission of this colored delegate.

2d. If Mr. Kingsley did withdraw for the reason assigned, the did so solitary and alone; and I can assess him that the Congress regards his action with the most philosophic indifference.

As I had the honor to represent the same body (the Industrial Congress of this city,) as the gestleman, and as I voted for the admission of this objectionable delegate. I sam willing to subtate our respective actions for their approval or censure.

Yours, respectfully.

EARTHQUAKE, AT GANDALOUPE, — Captaia McLellan, of the whip Sarah and Louiss, arrived here yesterday from Liverpool, via St. Thomas 21st May brings in celligence of an earthquake at Gaudaloupe. Captair, McLellan reports that he was informed as St. Tacomas by Mr. Fisher, the American Consul at Postea-Petre, that a very severe shock of an earthquake was felt at Guadaloupe on Saturday norming the 17th of May. The shock was most severely felt at the south side of the island, where considerable damage was occasioned by it. A great many houses were thrown down, and the plantations all over the island received more or less injury. Captain McLellan did not learn that any person yas killed.—N. O. Picayane, June 1.
